

Frequently Asked Questions

This Fact Sheet provides information relating to frequently asked questions arising from the commencement of the Scrap Metal Industry Act 2016 on 1 March 2017.

Who regulates Scrap Metal industry legislation?

Police regulate the Scrap Metal Industry Act 2016. They are authorised to enter scrap metal business premises at a reasonable time without a warrant and investigate contraventions of the Act. They are empowered to: search; take photographs and recordings; seize and copy records; and take other regulatory measures.

Are there fines for breaches of Scrap Metal industry legislation?

Yes. There are significant penalties for a variety of infringements including:

- operating an unregistered scrap metal business
- failing to maintain appropriate records
- taking possession of motor vehicles without authority from police that have had identifiers removed, obliterated, defaced or altered
- hindering or obstructing police
- paying cash for scrap metal (except for aluminium cans which are exempt)
- carrying on a business of dealing in scrap metal while a closure order is in force.

Breaches of the Scrap Metal Industry Act 2016 can also be brought before the Local Court.

What if I think Scrap Metal being presented for sale is stolen or unlawfully obtained?

Scrap metal dealers are required to report suspicious transactions to police.

How do I notify SLED of changes to my registered details or obtain a replacement certificate?

1. Download Form P1173- "Application to Amend or Replace an Existing Registration as a Scrap Metal Dealer" from the NSW Police Force website at http://www.police.nsw.gov.au/online_services/scrap_metal_industry
2. Complete the form, including payment details (acceptable methods of payment are: cheque; money order; or credit card – Visa or Master Card only)
3. Post to: SLED, NSW Police Force, Locked Bag 5099, PARRAMATTA NSW 2124.

WHERE CAN I FIND MORE INFORMATION?

The information provided in this Fact Sheet is for general guidance only. Applicants and licensees should familiarise themselves with the Security Industry Act 1997 and the Security Industry Regulation 2016, which are available on the NSW Legislation website (www.legislation.nsw.gov.au).